Randy Acevedo Superintendent of Monroe County Schools

Leadership

Superintendent Acevedo is one of those rare individuals in this world whose personal and professional congruence is second to none. As an educator in Florida since 1991 I have had the privilege to know him as a colleague years before he was elected as Superintendent of Monroe County, Florida. His skill, talents expertise and strengths have helped him take a legacy of leadership in Monroe County Schools and move it even further towards Academic Excellence for each student.

Education Excellence

John Dewey would immediately recognize Superintendent Acevedo by his belief system. Dewey was noted for his belief in the individual potential of every child we serve. Dewey knew that what the best and wisest parent wanted as an educational standard for his/her child – that standard was the one the community needs to embrace for each child. That belief system is clear in the leadership and standard Superintendent Acevedo has set for Monroe County – from Key Largo to Key West – 100+ miles of high standards, high expectations – improved results. Remember, continuity of great leadership is among the greatest influences in continuing to do what is best for our students. So what's the real question?
